A Strike of School Boys.

There was a strike yesterday in the Center School, and the following demands were made:

1. A reduction of the hours of study.
2. An increase in the hours of recess.
3. Noon to begin at 11 o'clock and extend to 1:30 or 2, according to the condition of the weather.
4. School shall let out any afternoon when there is a baseball match or circus within fifteen miles.
5. Any scholar who wants a reward of merit to carry home to his parents can have it at wholesale cost price.
6. Females to be made of soft wood.
7. The old-time custom of punishing boys by compelling them to sit with the girls shall be immediately restored.
8. A boy who holds up his right hand and says, "Please, sir, may I go out?" shall be allowed to go whether it be necessary or not.
9. The number of boys allowed to go and fetch a pail of water shall be increased from two to four, with proper allowance for time consumed in coming and going.
10. No boy shall be punished for offensive words spoken to a date with another boy.
11. While believing in arbitration on general principles, we insist that two boys who have a grudge to settle shall be allowed to fight it out between themselves. No teacher need apply a whip on account of it.
12. A boy who tells on another boy shall be boycotted.
13. No boy shall be kept in after school, except at his own request, as when another boy is lying in wait to kick him.

Populous Cities.

It will hardly be thought that there are not on the whole globe fifty cities containing 200,000 people; but such is the fact, and any one may convince himself of it by consulting a geographical dictionary. It would seem at first that there must be at least 200 cities of 200,000 people, but there is not. I repeat, one-fourth the number. Of these Great Britain has about 3, France 3, Italy 4, Germany (proper) 5 or 6, China some 9, India 8 or 9, and the United States, according to the last census, 9 or 10. It is somewhat remarkable that a country only 100 years old should have as many (if not more) large cities as the oldest lands; but it is not improbable that before another century we shall count as large a number of cities of 200,000 inhabitants as there are now in the world. New York may look with disdain upon towns of that size, but when they remember how few there are their disdain should be modified, if not converted to respect. The cities that can now lay claim to 100,000 population and upward are perhaps 150, and these include many of those which at first thought we should suppose contained two or three times this number.—N. Y. Commercial Advertiser.

Gladiators keeps a box into which he is in the habit of throwing cuttings from newspapers and other memoranda of facts bearing upon the subject in hand. On the morning of the day preceding any great oration he goes through his box and picks out his notes of the particular facts which he wishes to use. These he puts in his proper order upon a large sheet of paper, and uses them as the points upon which the speech itself is to be hung. Then he imagines himself to be actually speaking—composes his oration, in fact, in his head. After he is satisfied with it he dismisses the subject from his mind, and occupies himself until the hour of speaking comes in reading a novel. His memory is so great that he previously composed sentences come back to him without effort.

The Common Causes of Neuralgia.

The commonest causes of neuralgia are defective or poisonous condition of the blood. Large losses of blood are very certain to be followed by neuralgia in some nerve or nerves. The red blood corpuscles are very necessary to the proper nutrition of the central nervous system; consequently, when they are not present in due proportion, the brain suffers out for healthy blood, and its demand is most often uttered by way of more or less sharp, neuralgic pain. The vegetable parasite that produces what is called malarial poisoning destroys these essential red-blood discs.

The Truth Bothered Him.

A boy about 12 years old was the important witness in a lawsuit. One of the lawyers, after cross-questioning him severely, said: "Your father has been talking to you and telling you how to testify, hasn't he?" "Yes," said the boy. "Now," said the lawyer, "just tell us how your father told you to testify." "Well," said the boy, modestly, "he told me the lawyers would try and tangle me in my testimony, but if I would just be careful and tell the truth I could tell the same thing every time."
